

Name:

Compounds

Two base words that make a new word

Many words are compounds. Compounds are words like “homework” that are made up of two shorter words called base words. In the word “homework,” the base words are home + work.

In the words below, circle the two base words.

everyone storekeeper weekend overcome network toolkit football boyfriend runaway shortcut northwest daydream flashlight outside hotline whatever

Challenge yourself!

trustworthy meanwhile cliffhanger masterpiece gemstone stomachache afterthought schoolwork

Compounds, continued

Working with a partner, try to make as many words as you can with the base words below.

The words you make should all be compounds (base word + base word).

back

work

field

home

under

cross

room

crowd

show

run

snow

stop

in

hand

smart

fall

over

down

ball

out

off

side

How many compounds could you make? _____

Our list of compound words:		