Name:

Day Two Dealing with Stereotypes

math is her weakest subject
says stereotypes can keep people apart
they need to get past racial stereotypes
concerned	kuhn   SERND
stereotypes	STAIR   ee   oh   typs
certain	SIR   tin
judgment	JUHJ   mehnt

Decoding practice:

Circle)the base words in the longer words below. Remember, a base word is a smaller word within a longer word, with no endings or other word parts added.

racial

Asian

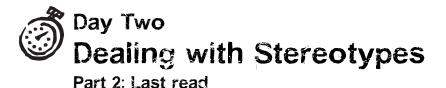

weakest

wearing

judgment

concerned

Passage 2 p. 13

// one minute

WPM

Nicole, Kim, and Sara are talking about race.

Nicole is concerned about racial stereotypes. "At my school, if you are Black, people act surprised when you get good grades. Last week my teacher was handing back 52 essays. A White student passed me the paper. You could tell she was shocked at my A grade. I try not to overreact. But it's slowly wearing me down," she says. Students 68 84 also expect her to dress a certain way and like certain music. "I hate rap," Nicole says. "But my White friends are always saying, 'Listen, you'll like this." 96 111 A racial stereotype is a race-based judgment. It means expecting people will act a certain way based on their race. "Latinos are good dancers." "African Americans can't 124 swim." These are both racial stereotypes. 130 143 Kim, an Asian student, also has a problem with stereotypes. Other students expect her to be good at math. Actually, math is her weakest subject. "People take one look 159 at me and think I am a math whiz," she says. "They couldn't be more wrong." Kim 176 193 feels bad about not living up to the stereotype. "I feel like I'm not smart enough or 207 good enough," she says. Kim even tries not wearing her glasses. "The glasses just make me look more like a nerd!" 214 227 Sara, a Latina student, says stereotypes can keep people apart. She thinks students should get to know each other. To do this, they need to get past racial stereotypes. 243

Part 3: Comprehension and discussion

Has someone ever used a stereotype to judge you? What happened? How did you feel?

Share with your partner. Has your partner had an experience like this?